hospital. The patient was stable on the issue of neuro ailment however, he had other co-morbidities for which he was transferred to multi speciality set up through a transfer certificate issued by them.

We are not at all impressed with the contentions of the CE.

On examination of the 'transfer certificate' it appears that the certificate did not mention the name of the transferee. No consent was obtained from the transferee for transfer. Moreover, the patient died immediately after such so called transfer. This issue, in our view, must be gone into by the appropriate authority.

Medical negligence is outside our domain. Hence, we are unable to decide on the issue at present. The complainant is granted liberty to approach the West Bengal Medical Council questioning the discharge through transfer certificate issued by the CE.

In case she is successful therein she would be at
